Stefania Siano Archaeological Officer Directorate General for European and International Affairs Ministry of Culture	With a PhD in Archaeological Research Methodology and a Specialization in Classical Archaeology, the professional background includes extensive expertise in Italic, Magna Graecia, and Roman material culture, developed through collaborations with Italian universities and Archaeological Superintendencies in research, excavation, field survey, and heritage enhancement. Seven years at the Archaeological Park of Herculaneum further strengthened experience in the management and valorization of Cultural Heritage within the UNESCO World Heritage framework, including the preparation of key documentation such as the State of Conservation Report, and the site's Management Plan. Responsibilities included accessibility initiatives, cultural programming, community engagement, and the coordination of exhibitions and public events. Since 2024, has been serving within the Directorate General for European and International Affairs, coordinating activities related to the Council of the European Union, multilateral cultural platforms, the European Data Group, and policies to counter the illicit trafficking of cultural property under the UNESCO 1970 Convention. Additional duties include supporting the Committee for the Recovery and Restitution of Cultural Property and contributing to international strategies for the protection, recovery, and repatriation of cultural heritage.